NOTES

FROM ROBERT OSBORNE

Katharine Hepburn: In a Class by Herself

Call it a schoolboy whim, call it madness, but I once had the nerve to ask Katharine Hepburn to dinner. I'd never met her, mind you, but does a reason like that ever stop a cheeky college boy, filled with the flush of being 18? At the time, I was an undergraduate at the University of Washington, and Hepburn was in Seattle on tour in a play. Hepburn! Live! In my town! It was too good to be true. It also seemed to be my mission to entertain her. She was, after all, a visitor in my domain, probably didn't know a soul in Seattle and wouldn't have a clue on how to fill those empty hours when she wouldn't be on stage. It was clearly up to me to rescue her. (Oh, the way the brain works when one is 18!). I tried to do it in an MGManner. I took some flowers to the front desk at her hotel (the local papers had mentioned were she was staying), and enclosed a note with an invitation to dinner at a spiffy restaurant (one I could ill afford but, well, I'd worry about that later). And I waited. And waited. Silence. Hmmm, there must have been a breakdown in communication. So I bought a second bouquet, though a smaller one, out of financial necessity, again enclosing a note to my pal Kate. (By now, in my mind, we were old, old friends or, at least, about to be.) Still no reply. A third bouquet didn't bring any better results. Then, soon after, the play ended, and Miss Hepburn and her fellow actors left town and moved on to the next engagement. I was crushed, then chagrined, then disappointed, then disenchanted. Never once did wisdom become a part of the equation. My only relief was the fact there'd been no restaurant bill to pay. But, as often happens with 18 year olds, I soon forgot about the episode, and moved on to some other pursuit. And then one day a letter arrived, with the logo of a prestigious Seattle hotel in the left hand corner. And inside were some words I've treasured ever since. The note read, "You are certainly very enthusiastic, and one quality I have enormous regard for is enthusiasm but, alas, in this instance I cannot respond – except to thank you for your beautiful red roses – they are particularly lovely ones – and to tell you that I never go out anywhere – but thank you for asking me. I have dinner before the play and I have to go home and go to bed afterward – otherwise I should die of exhaustion. I am sorry to disappoint you. But I'm not too sure it's a good idea for a young man to go about asking strange actresses to supper. Yours faithfully, Katharine Hepburn." Has anyone had their knuckles rapped with more class and style? I doubt it. Style and class have always been synonymous with Miss Hepburn. And we're proud to be showing you 23 movies with that stylish, classy and unique Katharine Hepburn during one incredible week this month on TCM.

Nicholas Ray on the set of In a Lonely Place (1950) with Humphrey Bogart. November 7, 11:30pm (ET).

DIRECTOR OF THE MONTH

Nicholas Ray — 10 Films; November 7-9

A filmmaker taken somewhat for granted during his heyday in the 1950s, Nicholas Ray (1911-1979) brought an intensely personal style to his movie melodramas that later qualified him as a true auteur and cult favorite. His feature debut, They Live By Night (1949), a study of young lovers on the lam from the law, established his vivid visual style and empathy with the turbulent lives of society's outcasts. Ray, who studied architecture under Frank Lloyd Wright, applied his understanding of locale and atmosphere to such films as In a Lonely Place (1950), On Dangerous Ground (1952) and Party Girl (1958). Ray's best-remembered film, the James Dean vehicle Rebel Without a Cause (1955), is considered the quintessential film study of teen-age angst and alienation.

SPECIAL THEME OF THE MONTH

Around the World in 30 Movies; — November 10-16

Book passage with TCM for an unprecedented world tour! Continent by continent, movie by movie, travel with us to the world's most exotic locations in the company of some of its brightest stars. The journey begins on Nov. 10 in Alaska with Belle of the Yukon (1944), starring Randolph Scott and Gypsy Rose Lee, and concludes Nov. 16 in Russia with Doctor Zhivago (1965), starring Omar Shariff and Julie Christie. Among many other destinations on our whirl-wind trip: Brazil (Nancy Goes to Rio, 1950, starring Jane Powell and Ann Sothern), French Morocco (Casablanca, 1942, starring Humphrey Bogart and Ingrid Bergman), Africa (Mogambo, 1953, starring Clark Gable, Ava Gardner and Grace Kelly), China (The Good Earth, 1937, starring Paul Muni and Luise Rainer), Indonesia (The Year of Living Dangerously, 1983, starring Mel Gibson and Sigourney Weaver), Greece (Never on Sunday, 1960, starring Melina Mercouri) and Poland (Yentl, 1983, starring Barbra Streisand and Mandy Patinkin).

Mel Gibson and Linda Hunt in The Year of Living Dangerously (1982). November 12, 4:00am(ET).

Ian Charleson and cast in Chariots Of Fire (1981). November 26, 10:15pm (ET), November 27, 12:00pm (ET).

THANKSGIVING CELEBRATION

24 Hours of Best Picture Winners — 10 Movies; Nov. 27

If there were such things as all-time Academy Awards, the movies on TCM's holiday list of Best Picture Oscar-winners surely would be among the top contenders. This incomparable day of programming offers the cream of the cinematic crop: Cimarron (1931), Ben-Hur (1959), Chariots of Fire (1981), An American in Paris (1951), Casablanca (1942), Gigi (1958), Gone With the Wind (1939), From Here To Eternity (1953), Annie Hall (1977) and Mutiny on the Bounty (1935).

STAR OF THE MONTH

Katharine Hepburn — 23 Movies; November 17-23

She is, as her favorite director George Cukor once put it, "a person whose rare charm and strength is her uncompromising individuality." In a week-long salute to this one-of-a-kind star, TCM celebrates the career of Katharine Hepburn with a chronological showing of many of her most significant films, ranging from Christopher Strong (1933) to A Delicate Balance (1973). It's an unprecedented chance to see Hepburn's development from what critic Pauline Kael called "the most beautiful comedienne of the '30s and '40s" (Bringing Up Baby, 1938; The Philadelphia Story, 1940) to the electrifying dramatic actress of Suddenly, Last Summer (1960) and The Lion in Winter (1968). TCM's tribute features six of the nine films in which Hepburn formed a perfect partnership with Spencer Tracy, including Woman of the Year (1942), Adam's Rib (1949) and Pat and Mike (1952). Included as a special bonus is Katharine Hepburn: All About Me, a beguiling 1993 documentary about the actress's life that was filmed with her active participation.

Katharine Hepburn in Christopher Strong (1933). November 17, 9:30pm (ET).

Gene Wilder, Kenneth Mars and Zero Mostell in The Producers (1968). Novmber 28, 9:45pm (ET).

A TRIBUTE TO THE FUNNYMEN OF THE FIFTIES

3 Movies; November 28

Your Show of Shows, the wickedly funny 1950s satire-variety series starring Sid Caesar and Imogene Coca, has had a lingering influence on film comedy. TCM celebrates this comic lineage with three films showing a kinship of one kind or another to the much-loved TV show. My Favorite Year (1982) takes an affectionate, fictional look at a Your Show of Shows-like program in which one of the show's budding young writers must chaperone a swashbuckling, often-inebriated guest star (Peter O'Toole) through the rigors of live television. The Producers (1968), a madcap satire of the theater world, marked the feature debut of former Your Show of Shows writer (and occasional performer) Mel Brooks, who won an Oscar® for his screenplay. Where's Poppa? (1970), a black comedy about a man who schemes to eliminate his elderly mother, was directed by Carl Reiner, whose first taste of fame came as Caesar's Show of Shows second banana.

BIRTHDAY TRIBUTE

Ann Rutherford — 3 Movies; Nov. 2

Forever to be known as Mickey Rooney's wholesome sweetheart Polly Benedict in Andy Hardy Gets Spring Fever (1939) and 11 other Hardy films, Ann Rutherford enjoyed a long career that also included such other MGM features as the family farce The Ghost Comes Home (1940) and the Red Skelton comedy Whistling in Dixie (1942). Rutherford, born in 1917, made her stage debut at age five and, except for occasional guest appearances, retired from films in 1950.

5:30am MGM PARADE SHOW #2 (1955)

Clark Gable's life examined in DEAR MR. GABLE (1970). November 30, 6:00am (ET).

Shortly after their first marriage in 1957, Natalie Wood and Robert Wagner announced they would not act together in films because they chose not to exploit their personal relationship. They made an exception for All the Fine Young Cannibals (1960), which became the couple's only theatrically released co-starring vehicle. Adapted from the Rosamond Marshall best-seller The Bixy Girls, the movie is a wild melodrama about tempestuous young Texans that has Wood becoming pregnant by Wagner but marrying blueblood George Hamilton. Critically derided in its day, the movie is now great fun because of its flamboyant dialogue and performances.

Each month TCM features movies chosen from the many viewer requests we receive. All the Fine Young Cannibals was requested by Becky Brewer from Fairborn, Ohio. Tune in November 6, 10:00pm (ET).
